

The British Flute Society and the Royal Scottish Academy of Music and Drama are delighted to announce a collaborative two-day Flute Festival taking place at the RSAMD on Sunday and Monday 6 and 7 June 2010.

The Festival is excited to welcome world-renowned Jacques Zoon as its guest international artist along with RSAMD's own luminary, Ruth Morley and Katherine Bryan, principal flautist of the Royal Scottish National Orchestra and RSAMD colleague, who will also perform to complete this tremendous and diverse line-up. The Festival will offer a wide range of activities including recitals and masterclasses, as well as flute choirs and trade stands. The event culminates with a final evening recital given by Jacques Zoon, with the pianist Scott Mitchell.

Jacques Zoon has created a unique place for himself in the flute world. Playing on a wooden flute (developed by himself), he is a versatile and inspiring performer.*

Ruth Morley has been hugely influential in creating imaginative performances as a recitalist and chamber musician, with a strong emphasis on contemporary music.*

Katherine Bryan burst onto the orchestral scene at an extremely young age and has quickly established a reputation for her exciting performances.*
